Support T&W Today!

Teachers & Writers Collaborative relies on contributions from individuals, foundations, corporations, and government entities to support our creative writing programs at schools and community sites in New York City and the surrounding communities. Contributions also help T&W to publish and distribute resources for a national and international audience of teachers and writers.

T&W is a nonprofit, charitable organization. Contributions to T&W are tax deductible to the extent permitted by law. An unrestricted donation at the following levels will help T&W to:

- $50: Provide supplies for a T&W creative writing program at a public school or other community site in New York City or the surrounding communities.
- $100: Pay artists to contribute writing and images to the blog on T&W's website.
- $250: Offer a one-time writing workshop for young people and adults attending a book festival or other community event.
- $500: Sponsor a professional development session for T&W's writers.
- $750: Publish an article about the teaching of writing or an interview with a well-known writer in Teachers & Writers Magazine.
- $1,000: Publish an anthology of student writing at the end of a T&W creative writing program.
- $5,000: Select a professional writer to provide a creative writing residency for 100–150 students at a school in New York City or the surrounding communities.

To donate go to www.twc.org/support-tw/donate or call (212) 691-6590.
